

JACQUI BELLEAU

jacqui.belleau@gmail.com

HELLO!

Much of my recent work has revolved around consumer electronics and wearable technologies; I've worked with hungry start-ups, giant tech and medical companies to bring transformative products to market. My strengths and passion for design dwell in an ability to identify opportunities and iterate complexities that arise throughout any process. I strive to maintain the intent of the design from realistic concept through production.

Digital + Physical User Experience

Over the last decade an increasing number of products are connected to digital mobile and web experiences. By conducting a variety of research methods, analysis, prototyping and testing we can answer questions such as: What comes first, a digital or physical experience? What features can be eliminated from the hardware and managed via software? What type of interactions and touch points form a positive user experience?

Please look over my completed work samples, I'd be happy to share my process in person.

Cheers!

Jacqui

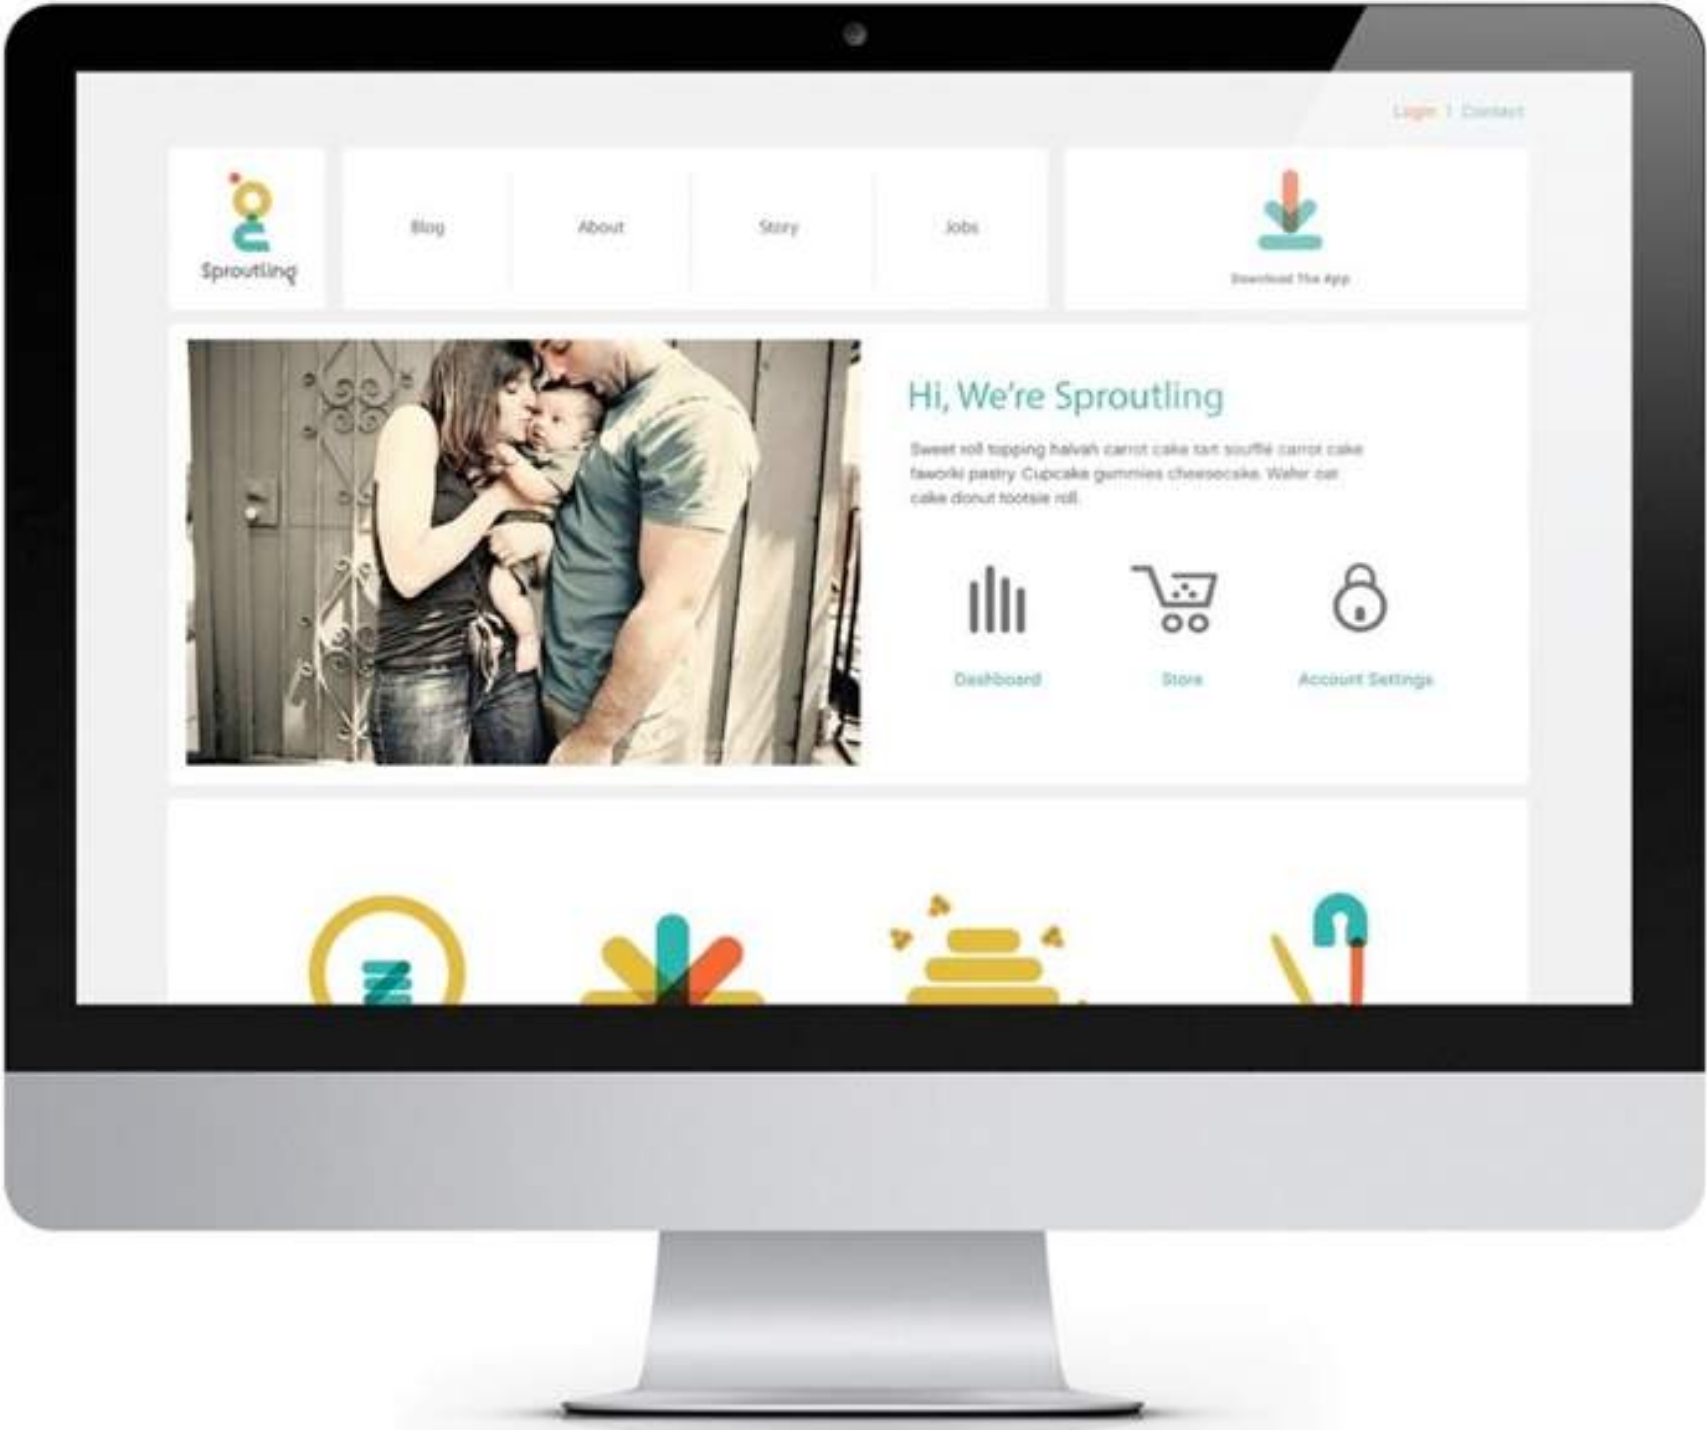

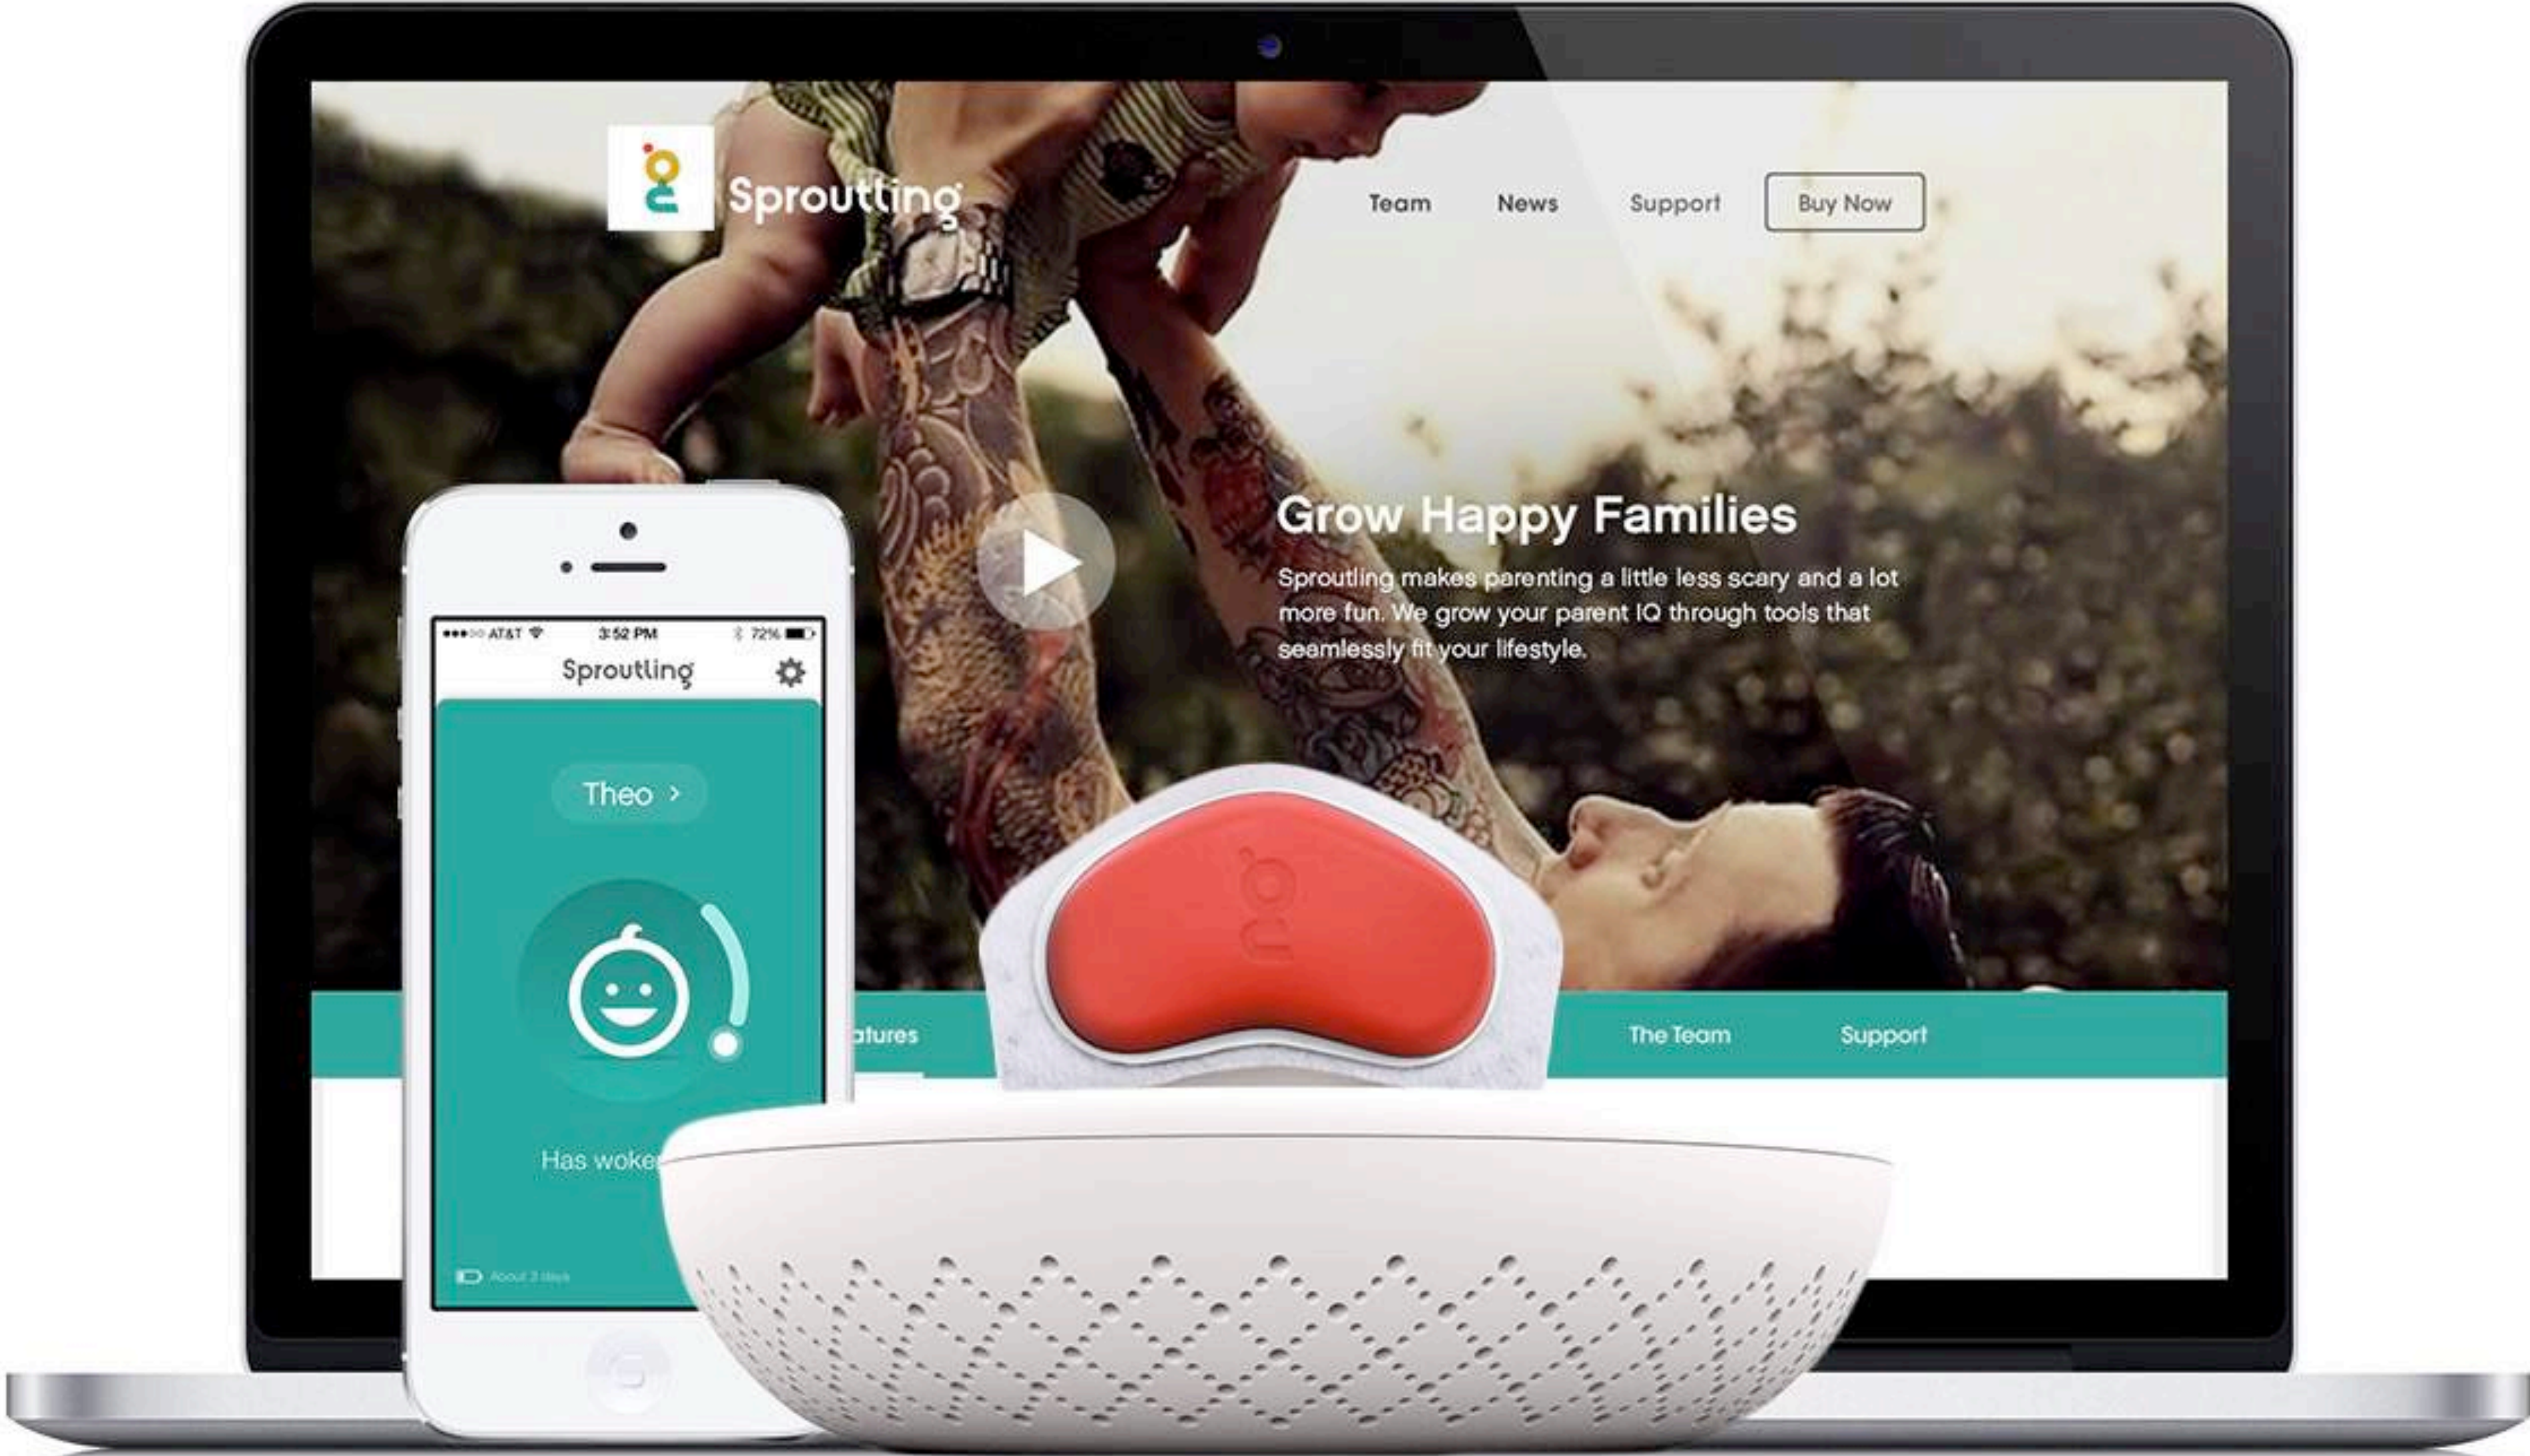

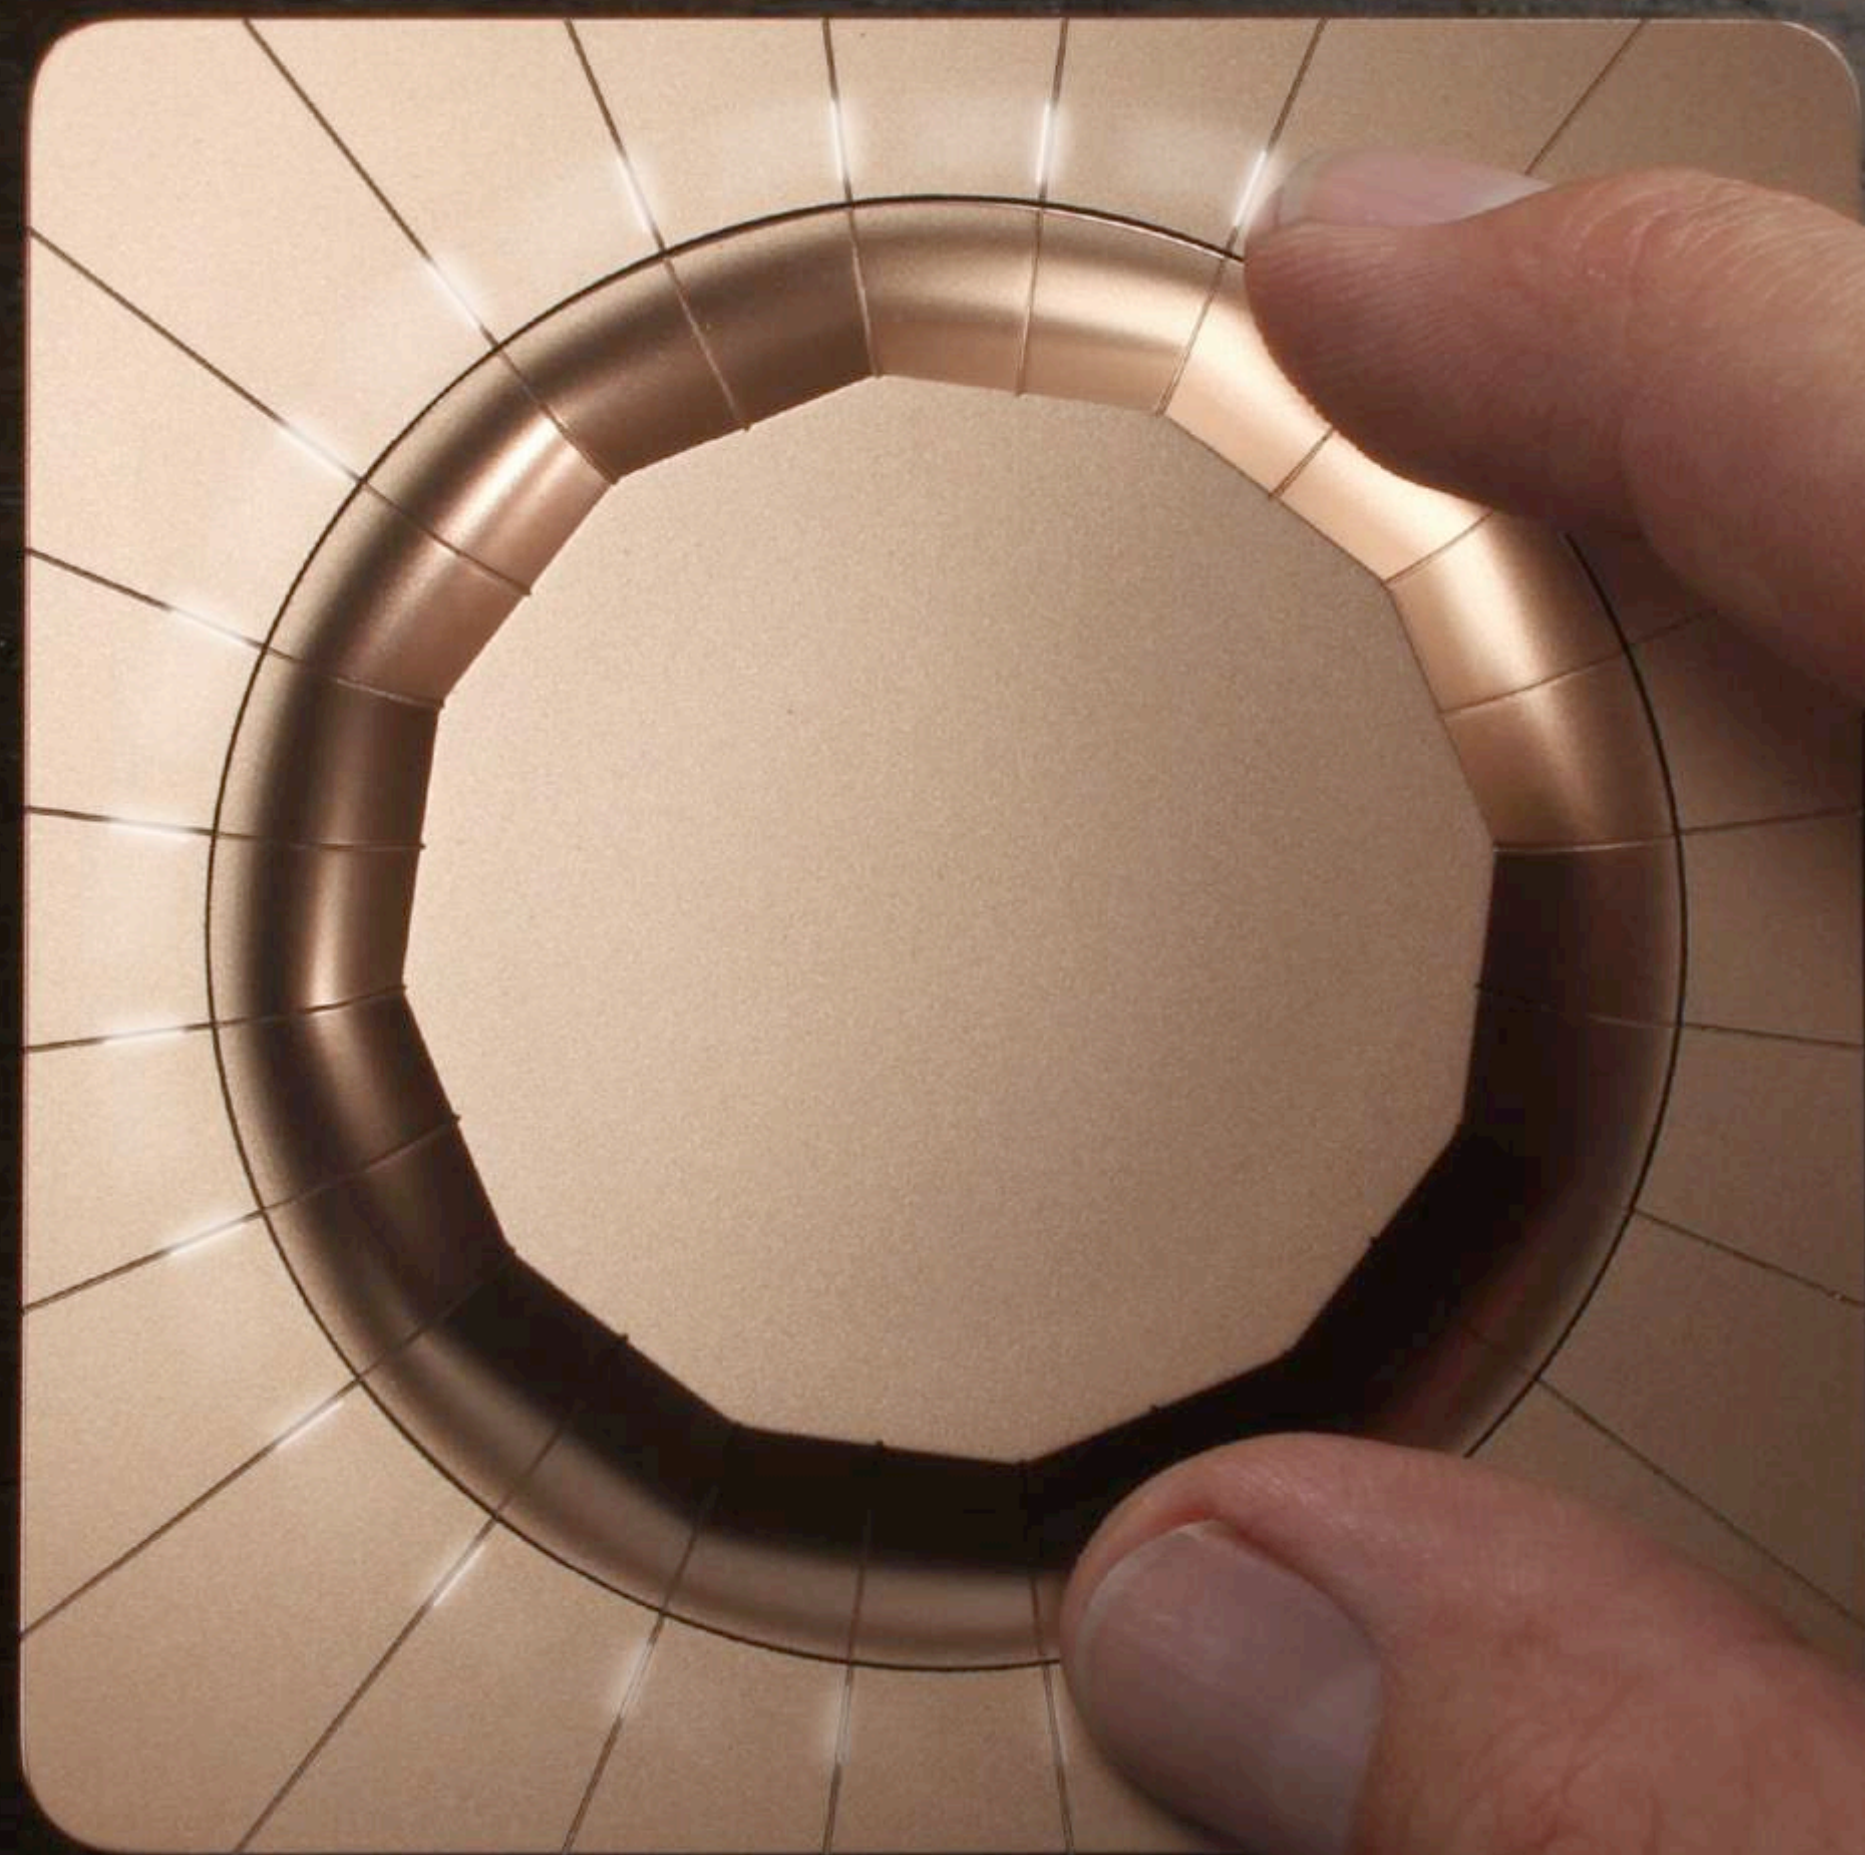

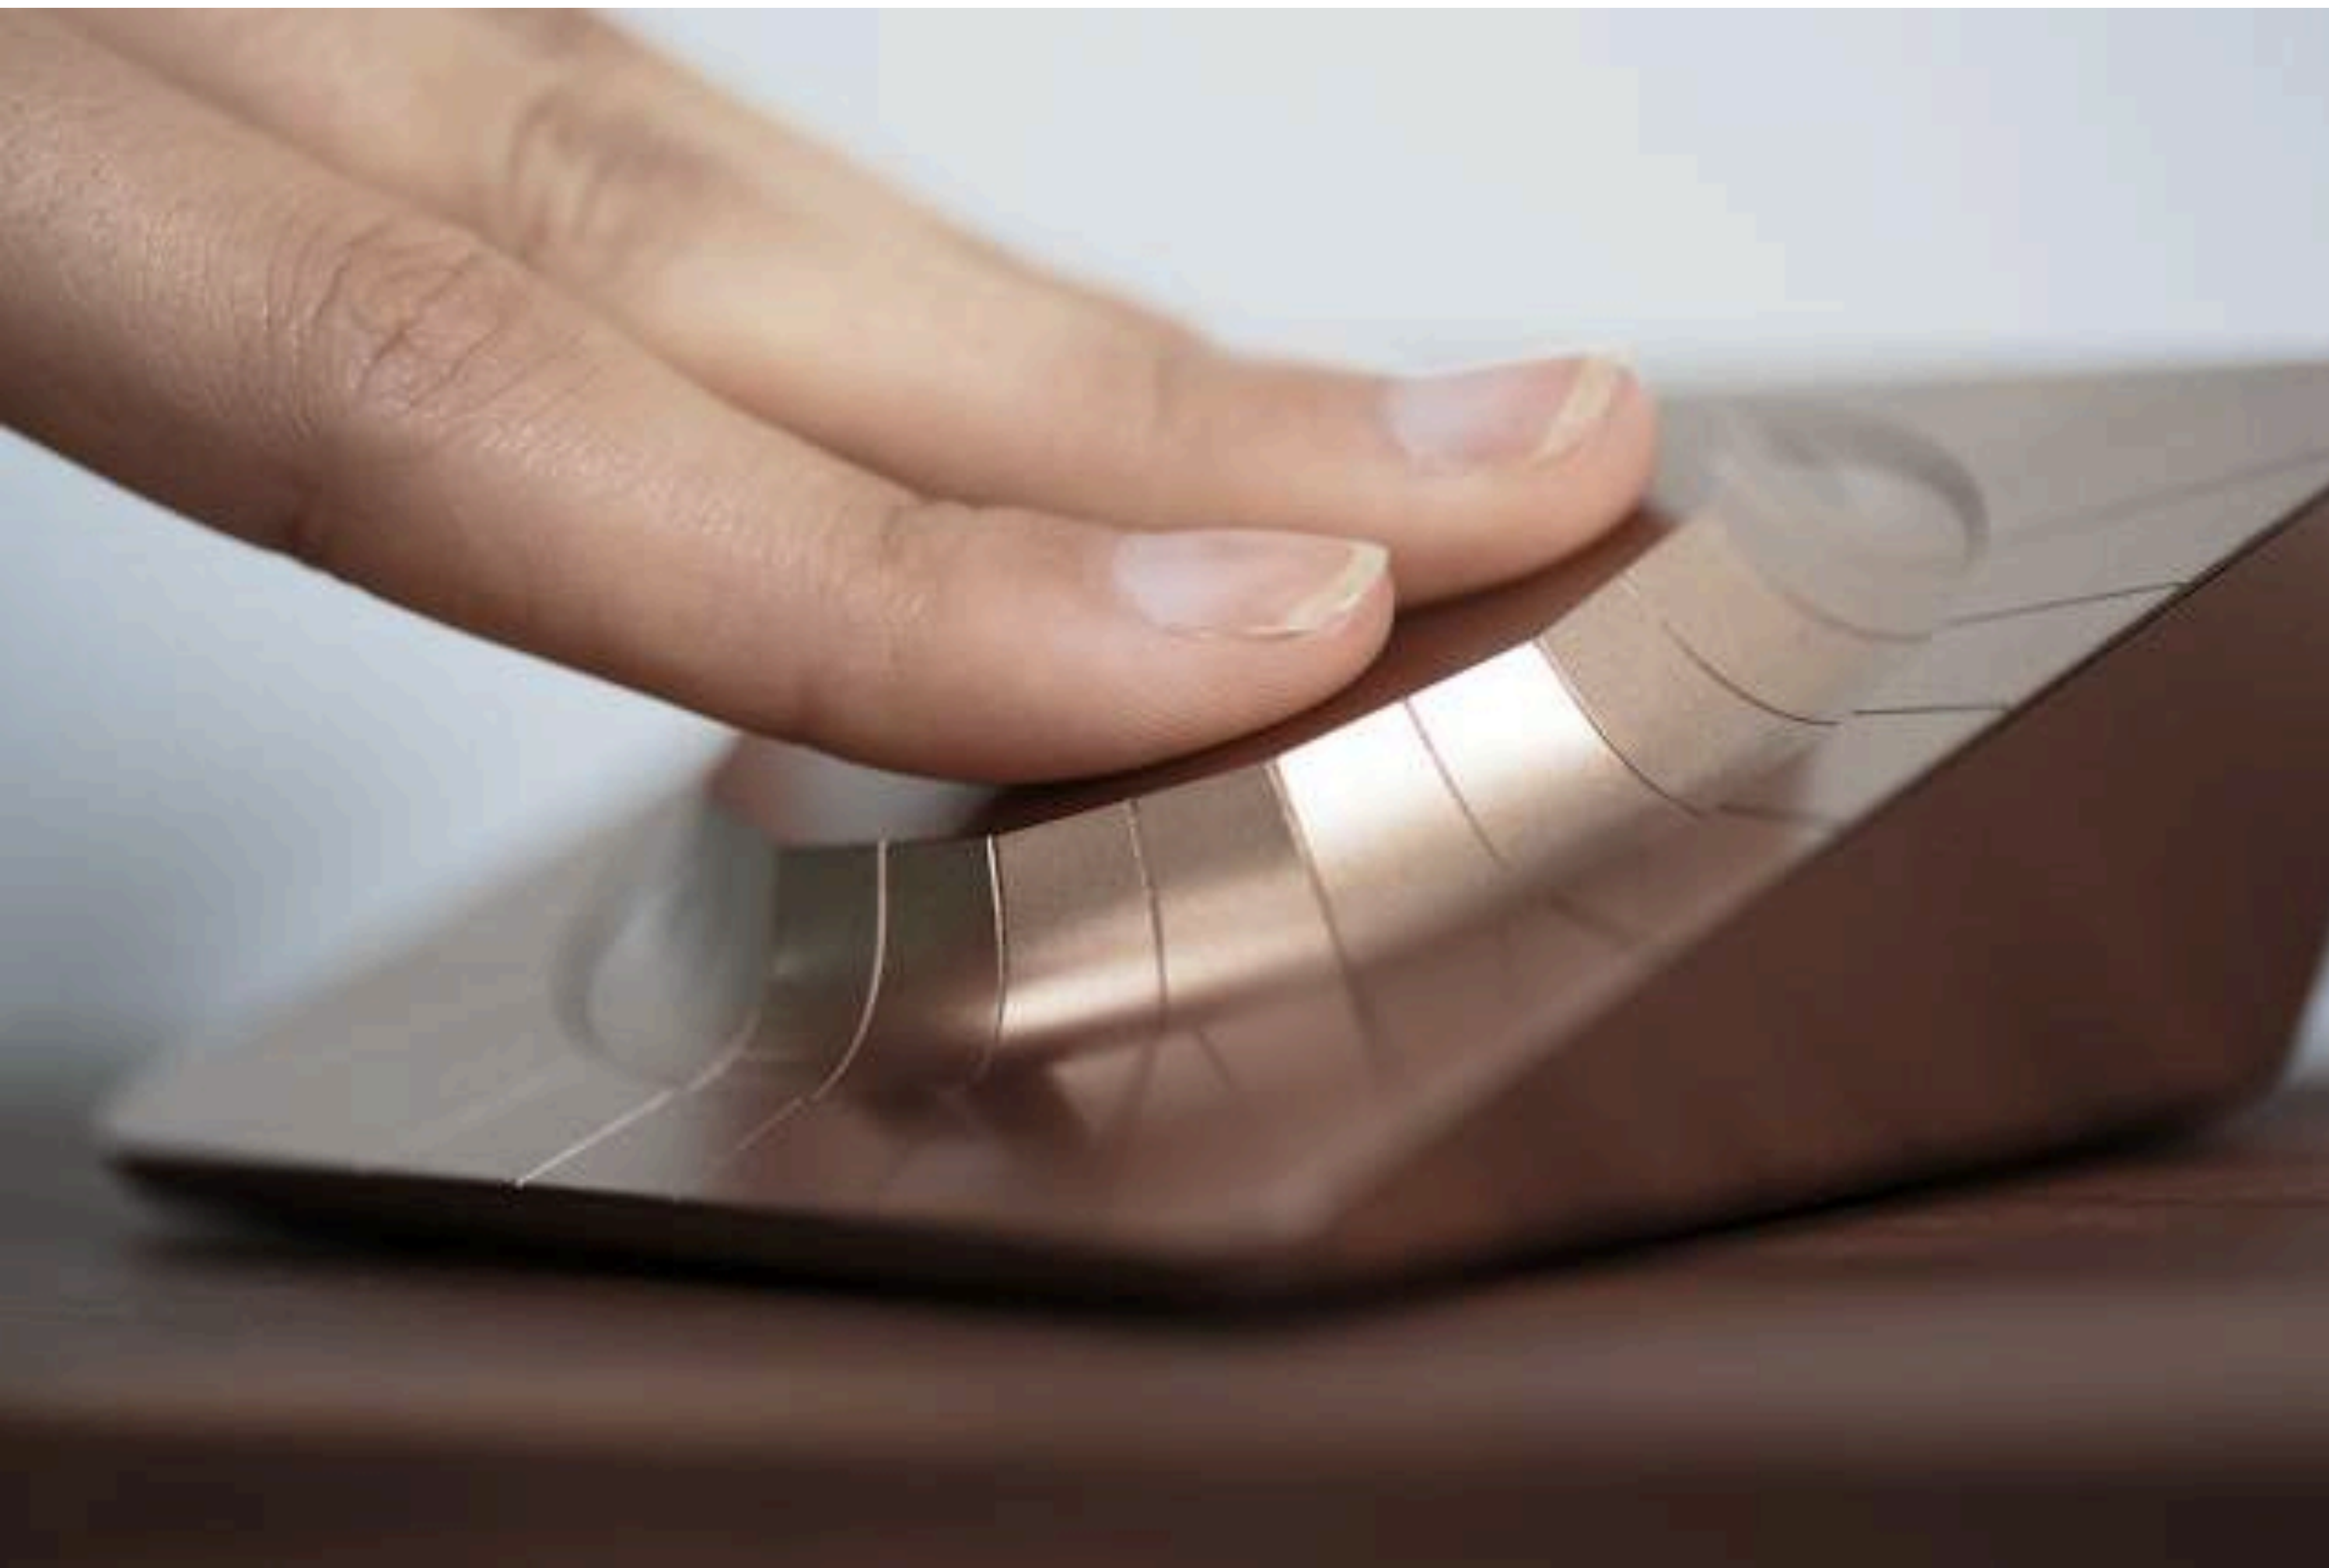

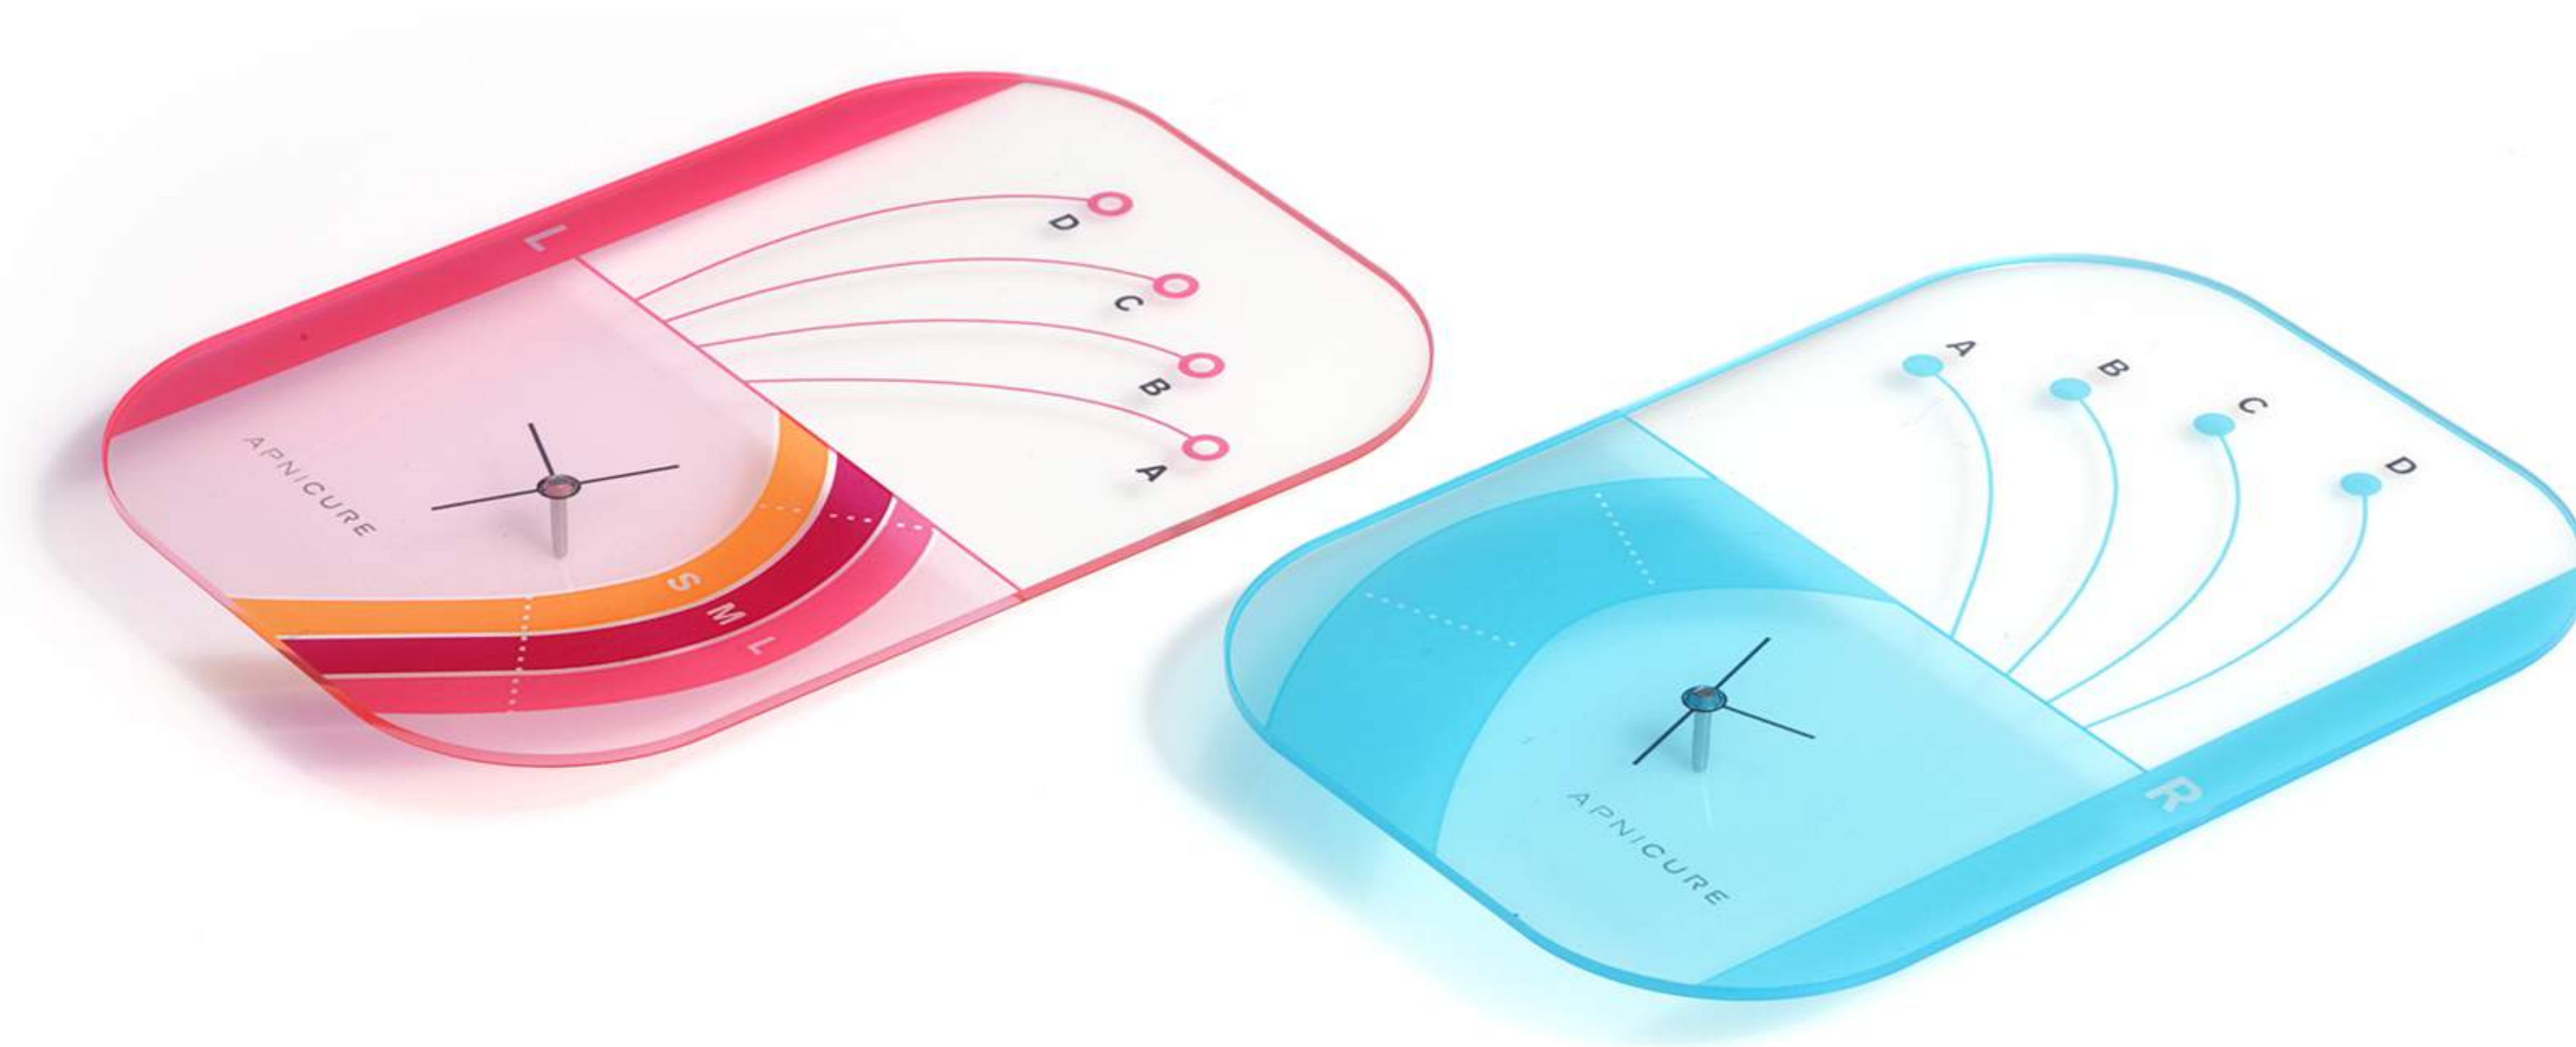

THANK YOU!